Report on the Monitoring Mechanism of Self-Study 22-23

1. Introduction

As we all are aware about the importance of self-study at the under- graduate level. The students are well grown up and there should not be monitoring or supervising, but as even we have monitoring in all the sectors then why not in the Colleges. It is the responsibility of the students to learn, but at the end of the day or end of the year there should not be failures in the Institutions and the process should be 100% successful. Thus there should be periodic monitoring or supervising or a follow up mechanism Mention the scope and objectives of the report. Thus monitoring is incorporated in the self-study at B.Ed. level in our college.

1. To check the progress of students in the self-study
2. To provide them motivation to do the self-study

2. Methodology

The data of monitoring is collected on the Google classroom from last three years, the activities are spread throughout the year. The student-teachers are asking their queries on Whatsapp and Google classroom. The college has special mechanism of follow up through the diary cell group or mentoring group where the Group In-Charge faculty ask them about their studies and other problems and motivate them to do the study seriously and sincerely

3. Overview of the Monitoring Mechanism

1. Monthly meeting of Diary cell group: The group In-Charge faculty members are in contact with their students and group leader. There are officially monthly meeting of the group. The college organizes meetings of the groups at month's end.

2. The special meetings of Diary cell group: The special meetings are called as per the necessity, before and after the activities, even the students can meet the faculty members any time,

3. The Whatsapp Group: The faculty members created Whatsapp group of their students for regular communication. They take the follow up of self-study progress along with other submissions and completion of work.

4. The Google Classroom: The faculty member has created the Google Classroom for the course, the course material or learning material is uploaded on the Google Classroom, the self study activity is distributed throughout the academic year and partial submission for the follow up are demanded as per the time schedule. So a kind of formative and summative evaluation is followed.

4. Effectiveness of the Mechanism

All the mechanism developed for the monitoring and follow up found effective as all the students who are participated in the activity are 100% submitting their work, presenting their work at the time of internal submission. They upload their progress time to time on Google classroom.

5. Challenges and Issues

There are some issues related to admission process, as there is delay in the admission process done by the Govt. of Maharashtra, the duration of course has become shorter after the COVID 19 outbreak. The faculty requires lots of patience to collect the feedback and students are not responding quickly on the social media due to the social media phobia or expression inferiority complex.

6. Recommendations

To enhance the effectiveness of self-study monitoring, the faculty recommended that the student-teachers should be techno savvy and follow the netiquettes.
